1 ELECTION OF CHAIRMAN OF THE COUNCIL

- 1.1 On the proposal of Councillor Mellen and seconded by Councillor Eburne, Councillor Rowland Warboys was nominated for the position of Chairman of the Council.

By a unanimous vote.

It was RESOLVED: -

That Councillor Rowland Warboys be elected as Chair of the Council for the municipal year 2023/24.

- 1.2 Before vacating the Chair Councillor Caston thanked the previous Council for their support throughout his chairmanship, he also thanked the Corporate Manager – Governance and Civic Office and the Lead Officer – Regulatory and Civic Office for their support. Additionally Councillor Caston highlighted that he had raised £4,400 for his chosen charity Stowmarket ASD Saturday Club.
- 1.3 Councillor Warboys made his declaration of office.
- 1.4 Councillor Warboys thanked the citizens of Gislingham Ward for re-electing him to represent them on the Council and thanked his fellow Councillors for electing him as Chairman, and the outgoing Chair Councillor Caston for his fair approach and fundraising throughout his chairmanship.
- 1.5 Additionally the Chair paid tribute to the newly elected Councillors, and those who were not re-elected. He announced that his chosen charities were Street Forge Thornham Magna, and Beyond the Wall. Both of which worked with people aged 16 and over who have disabilities.

2 ELECTION OF VICE-CHAIRMAN OF THE COUNCIL

That the minutes of the meeting held on 20 March 2023 be confirmed and signed as a true record.

6 MC/23/2 CHAIRMAN'S ANNOUNCEMENTS

6.1 The Chairman's announcements were noted.

7 ELECTION OF LEADER OF THE COUNCIL

7.1 A nomination for Councillor Andrew Melen was proposed by Councillor Stringer and seconded by Councillor Eburne.

By a unanimous vote

It was RESOLVED: -

That Councillor Andrew Mellen be appointed Leader of the Council for the current term of office.

8 LEADER'S ANNOUNCEMENTS

8.1 The Leader made the following announcements:

"Mr Chairman, can I be the first to congratulate you on your elevation to your new position as chair of the council. Also to Councillor Pratt for your election as vice-chair. I am sure you will both do a very good job over the next year, I commend you for your choice of charities to fundraise for, and I am also very grateful that you have both agreed to be champions of the democracy project, as we seek to promote better engagement by our citizens, particularly young people, in the democratic process.

With 20 new members on the council, you have a job of work to do in learning the new names and new faces, but I am sure you will soon know your Councillor Marriott from your Councillor Morgan, your Davis from your Davies, and your Hadingham from your Hardingham.

I would like to start by welcoming all members to this new council term, whether newly elected, or returning for another four years. Each of you have put yourself forward, you have made it through the campaign and have been elected to represent your community - and every one of you has a significant contribution to make to the work of this authority.

I am sure we all will want to thank our hard-working officers for the smooth operation of the election count at Wherstead park. I know that this required a big team effort, not just from the elections team but with many other staff members in support, and with the significant media interest it was a long and busy day. So thank you to Arthur and all the other staff involved for a job well done.

I would also like to pay tribute to members from the previous term who are no longer councillors. Several long-serving members stood down at this election and we will miss their wisdom and experience. I am sure that all members will join me in wishing them long and happy retirements.

I also want to thank the three Councillors who served in the last term who the electorate chose not to return here - due to this sometimes brutal business that we call democracy: Councillor Tim Passmore, a councillor for 20 years, a former leader who still has a big job as our police and crime commissioner; Councillor Harry Richardson whose talent I feel sure will carry him back onto the political stage at some point, and I must also pay tribute to the council's leader for the last four years, Councillor Suzie Morley, who, on a hung council, pulled off the remarkable achievement of leading a stable administration for four years. I wish her well for the future and I am sure she will be back.

Having looked back, I now want to look forward and briefly set out our administration's priorities and programme for the next four years. We have an emphatic mandate from the electorate to deliver the sensible Green agenda that we set out during the campaign. Mid Suffolk's residents are rightly concerned about a variety of issues: the cost of living perhaps the most pressing concern over the past year. For many it is finding an affordable place to live. Others spoke to us about the provision of local services, or public transport, or the decline of town centres. And above all these concerns is the looming threat from climate change, which we can no longer speak of as something that will trouble us in the future – it's here and now. Last week The World Meteorological Organisation warned that we are about to cross that threshold of 1.5 degrees warming, and we only need to think back to last summer when we saw record temperatures and a prolonged period of drought here, in East Anglia - a taste of things to come. Alongside the climate crisis but often with a lower profile is a biodiversity crisis, with huge declines in the populations of insects, pollinators, birds and other wildlife.

Now clearly a district council such as ours cannot solve all of these problems. But we can make a start, and we can work with others, we can take a lead, and I believe we can make a difference. So today we formally press the re-set button on the council's priorities, and in the days, weeks and months ahead we will re-focus the work of the council in a greener and more sustainable direction.

We must continue to deliver the council's services to the highest possible standard, whether that is emptying the recycling bins, licencing a taxi, deciding a planning application, or the thousand and one other things that this organisation does so well.

We have an excellent team of over 500 staff, shared with Babergh, and we want them to continue to take pride in the work they do and the services that they deliver. But concern for this beautiful world, for the climate and for nature must be at the heart of all that we do. It must be the prism through which we view every future decision, it must run through this organisation like letters through a stick of rock.

This council declared a climate emergency back in July 2019, here in this chamber, and declared a biodiversity emergency a few months later. If we are to take those declarations seriously, we must take environmental concerns into account in every decision that we make: how we work; what we invest in; the kind of houses we build, the locations we allow to develop, the type of businesses that we support and encourage, and all the services we provide.

Alongside this re-set of our priorities, there are three words that I want to mention that I think help to sum up the first Green administration's approach. Firstly, we must do all we can to improve the liveability of our communities. This might be a new word for some people so what do I mean by this? You may have heard about the concept of the 15 minute neighbourhood in cities – where all essential services can be found within a short walk or cycle ride of where you live. We can't hope to achieve this in rural areas but we can look to promote the liveability of our villages and towns, supporting the provision of key facilities which help to make places easier to live in, what some have described as the foundation economy. This might be the local pub which also hosts the village post office or the food bank, 2 examples that are already happening. It could be redundant farm buildings re-purposed as a micro-brewery or a professional services centre, or the village hall which acts as a hub for community life. These kind of small businesses and community connections are often what make neighbourhoods work and on which people depend, and we want to build these up and support them.

The second word is resilience. Resilience is what someone has described as "bounce-back-ability" – the ability to take a punch and recover and survive and keep going. We have seen a number of shocks over the past year – financial, economic, the cost of living etc. and our resilience is being tested. Our households and communities will need to be even more resilient in the years ahead – there will be troubles, some of which like climate change we can anticipate, others which we won't be able to foresee, but if we can build up the resilience of the district we will be in a much better state to withstand them.

The third word came into my mind just a little too late – I was asked by a journalist last week what will a Green-led district look like after four years, and I produced an answer of sorts – but later I realised I could have summed it up in one word, and that word is thriving. We want to see Mid Suffolk thriving. Not just economically – though that's important, but also culturally, socially, environmentally, sustainably thriving. With our focus on sustainability and community we want this district to be a great place to live (which it already is) – a great place to work, a great place to do business and a great place to visit. If we can achieve that, as councillors, as officers, and working with all the other organisations involved, that will be something to be proud of.

To put these priorities into action, I would now like to introduce the members of the cabinet. Serving as deputy leader of the council, and portfolio holder for Finance and Resources will be Councillor Rachel Eburne. Cabinet member for Heritage, Planning and Infrastructure is Councillor Andrew Stringer. Cabinet member for Housing and Property is Councillor Richard Winch.

Cabinet member for Thriving Towns and Rural Communities is Councillor Teresa Davis Cabinet member for Environment, Culture and Wellbeing is Councillor Tim Weller. As leader, I will look after the portfolio for Performance and Resilience.

Whilst the cabinet will lead and guide our initiatives, as I said earlier I believe that all elected members have a significant part to play in the council's work, and there are many ways in which this will be done: Sitting on one of the committees: planning, licencing or scrutiny; participating in a working group or a task and finish group; representing the council on one of the many outside bodies; taking part in debate in this chamber, or simply representing your residents in a myriad of ways. Whilst we may not always agree politically, it is a good and healthy thing to have different views and perspectives, and I look forward to the contribution each one of you will make.

In that spirit, we have decided not to nominate Green councillors for all of the committee chair and vice-chair positions, leaving some for non-administration members to fill and this information has been shared with the opposition group leaders.

Lastly, the last four years showed us that the leader and cabinet model, whilst having certain benefits, is not a particularly democratic system, where half the council can be denied a stake in the administration. So, despite the fact that we have a clear majority, I can announce today that we will seek, within this council term, to review the council's governance structure, with the intention of bringing in a more democratic configuration.

So Mr Chairman, in conclusion I want to harness the enthusiasm and commitment of this new administration, and set ourselves the challenge of being a fairer, more open, more sustainable council, leading to a thriving and resilient district.”

- 8.2 Councillor Whitehead congratulated Councillor Mellen as the new Leader of the Council. He commented that although Opposition will be a new learning experience for himself and the Conservative councillors, Opposition plays an important role in the democratic system and they would approach it with humility but with a clear desire to hold the new controllers of the council to account.

Councillor Whitehead went on to say that the Greens had inherited a golden legacy from the Conservatives, including a council that could freeze its council tax precept for two years, the budget and four-year outlook, Gateway 14 and CIFCO investments. He commented that the Greens now take on stewardship of that golden legacy and the Opposition will closely scrutinise how they perform that stewardship.

Agenda Item 5

MSDC COUNCIL – 19 JULY 2023

ITEM 5 – LEADER’S ANNOUNCEMENTS

Leader’s announcements, MSDC Council @ The Blackbourne, Elmswell, 19th July 2023

We are now over two months into this new council term – and I hope that all new members are now settling into their role as councillors. The initial induction and training is largely done, and committees and working groups have started to meet and conduct the council’s work. For the new administration it has been a busy start:

Work is continuing to establish our key strategic priorities. The council’s Corporate Plan refresh starts soon; our Residents’ Survey – so important to help us understand the views and needs of our communities – launches this week; and our State of the District report will also soon be published. These will all influence and shape what we do to improve our district over the next four years.

However, as a new administration, we have already tasked officers with a series of initial actions that we want to see happen quickly. I am happy to introduce these to council today and outline the progress that has already being made.

Firstly, we want to make an immediate improvement to the local environment by cleaning up litter and improving the appearance of the district. This will involve our own staff in extra clearance work, and we also want to encourage parish and town councils and residents to get involved too. We are creating a fund for additional cleaning work across the district, to help encourage community action and enhance pride in where we live. We want this to reach every town and every village, as well as main roads like the A14 and A140. The campaign will be called Pride in Your Place, and will be launched next month, members will receive further details in due course.

Secondly, we want our council to feel closer to its communities. We already taken some council meetings, such as this one, out of Ipswich and back in the district that we represent - I am delighted that we can be here in Elmswell this evening. The cabinet meeting last week was at the John Peel Centre in Stowmarket. Other meetings will take place in the district where this is appropriate. We also want to improve residents’ access to the council: a new improved website is coming, and whilst there has already been a reduction in call waiting times when our residents call us, we want to improve this further.

We see an immediate need to ramp up work on making more homes energy efficient. Keeping people warm for less is vital during the cost-of-living crisis and also helps reduce our carbon footprint. We already have £2 million set aside for this purpose, agreed at the budget meeting earlier this year. We are designing a scheme to fund or subsidise home insulation measures for those in greatest need, discussions have already started with others working in this space and we aim to launch this in time to make an impact this winter.

Next, we want to address the problem of rural isolation and lack of public transport options. Our district’s bus services are insufficient or non-existent in many rural communities, and we want to find ways of addressing this - working with partners, we are looking at opportunities for electric buses or other forms of community transport. We are opening discussions with a range of operators.

We want our communities to have more of a say about what we do. For example, we want to give them a voice when deciding how we spend their money. So, the process of setting next year's budget will involve participation by residents in shaping spending and saving priorities.

We are establishing a clear position on the development of solar farms in our district. The cabinet member for heritage, planning and infrastructure has been drafting this with our planning team, but we urgently need Government clarity on this matter - as you may have seen from my comments at the LGA conference and in a media release last week.

We will be convening a water summit with other stakeholders, looking at the challenges faced - particularly in areas where there is a commercial water shortage - and how we can address them together.

It will surprise no-one that a golden thread running through our administration will be taking serious and appropriate action on carbon reduction and biodiversity. We are reviewing and evaluating the council's existing plans, establishing what further work is necessary.

We are ambitious for our town centres, which have been under pressure from the change in shopping habits and the impact of covid lockdowns. We want to quickly introduce initiatives that can begin to make a positive impact, building on work already under way. Officers are working on a list of costed interventions from the wayfinding strategy, while the 'vision' programme will also be reviewed and refreshed.

How we publicly report our performance is also being refined, with specific measurable objectives that are clear to our staff and residents.

As I've already said, protecting and enhancing our environment is vitally important. Therefore, we will be looking at how we can improve the council's response to reports of environmental damage, and respond quickly when trees, hedges and green spaces are under threat.

We want to engage much more with young people, so they feel they have a voice in local democracy. To address this, we're looking at various ideas which provide an opportunity to educate, inform and invite participation.

Finally, we want to work on all these initiatives in the context of an open and productive working relationship with council officers, where we are free to encourage and challenge one other in positive ways. These thirteen areas are where we aim to deliver an immediate impact, and I will keep council updated at future meetings on these and on our longer-term plans.

In closing, I'd also like to take this opportunity to welcome the news that the Tour of Britain men's cycle race will be coming to Mid Suffolk on Thursday 7 September, passing through a number of towns and villages including Debenham, Stowmarket and Needham Market. Whilst there will be some temporary road closures and travel disruption as the peloton passes through, it's a great opportunity to showcase our fantastic district and for communities to come together and encourage the riders.

Agenda Item 8

MSDC COUNCIL – 19 JULY 2023

ITEM 8 - QUESTIONS BY COUNCILLORS IN ACCORDANCE WITH COUNCIL PROCEDURE RULES

Question 1: Cllr Whitehead to Cllr Mellen, Leader of the Council

At Full Council in September 2021, Cllr Mellen asked the then Leader of the Council a question as follows:-

“We are going to have to start asking our residents to start making difficult choices in the years ahead about how they live, how they travel, what they eat, and how they heat their homes. Is this administration ready to provide the leadership on this issue that Mid Suffolk needs?”

Nearly two years on, and with Cllr Mellen now the Leader of this council, can I ask him, for the benefit of both myself and the residents in my ward, to set out in detail against each of the four matters he raised – “live”, “travel”, “eat” and “heat” – what are difficult choices he will be requiring of Mid Suffolk residents in the years ahead?
